

Paige Clarkson

District Attorney

Paige Clarkson is a 1999 graduate of Willamette University College of Law. A member of the Oregon State Bar since that time, Paige has served on the Oregon State Hospital Advisory Board, is a current member of the Governor's Alcohol and Drug Policy Commission and the Oregon District Attorney's Association Legislative Committee and has served on numerous statewide workgroups to improve law enforcement policy.

Paige started as a law clerk in the Marion County District Attorney's Office in 1997, and has prosecuted everything from DUII to Murder since. She spent over a decade as a Trial Team Leader before being elected as District Attorney.

Paige calls Marion County home and lives in Salem with her husband who is both a police officer and a (Ret'd) Lieutenant Colonel in the United States Marine Corps, their four children, two rowdy dogs, and Tater, the family rabbit. You can learn more about Paige and the important work of your Oregon District Attorneys here.