

PRESS RELEASE

The Pudding River Watershed Council (PRWC) is currently accepting applications from community members who are interested in serving on the PRWC Board of Directors and/or volunteers to serve as a lead organizer of one of the Council's local Creekshed Stewardship Teams.

The purpose of the PRWC Board and the Creekshed Steward is to implement the PRWC mission and by-laws through work plans and administrative duties. The PRWC's Executive Director, Jamison Cavallaro, said that the Watershed Council's mission is "Revitalizing people-centered community economic development through watershed sustainability projects, civic leadership opportunities, and comprehensive ecosystem conservation and workforce training initiatives."

Volunteering to serve on the PRWC Board or as a Creekshed Steward may be of particular interest to those who live or work in the greater Willamette Falls-Molalla-Pudding Basin. Experience with organizational administration, or substantive experience in water quality, water quantity, conservation ecology, or other farm, fisheries, floodplain, or land management and natural resource issues would be helpful.

A one-page letter of interest about why you want to serve on the PRWC Board or as a Creekshed Steward is required, along, with a brief resume of your background and professional experience. Deadline to apply is October 15, 2010.
