

WANTED

Name: Meadow knapweed (Centaurea pratensis)

Aliases: meadow thistle

Description: Stout plant 1' to 5' tall; leaves up to 6" long, narrow, coarsely lobed, and tapering off towards the top; produces 1 to 3 pink to purple flowers ¼" to ½" wide at branch ends; black triangular spots on its bracts

Last seen: Roadsides, near over-grazed pasture

Charge: Out-competing native species, reducing forage for wildlife and livestock, causing problems for tree growers
