I. Overview

From 2000 to 2010, Oregon's incarceration rate increased by nearly 50% growing to 14,000 adults in custody with a total biennial corrections budget of more than $1.6 billion. In response to this rapid growth, the bipartisan interagency Commission on Public Safety was convened to analyze state corrections and sentencing policies. The commission's recommendations became the foundation for House Bill (HB) 3194,¹ known as the Justice Reinvestment Act, which the Oregon Legislature passed in 2013. HB 3194 made several modest sentencing changes and created the Justice Reinvestment Grant Program with the goal of reducing prison populations, reducing recidivism, increasing public safety, and holding offenders accountable.

The Justice Reinvestment Grant Program is Oregon's proactive approach to spending resources more effectively by controlling prison growth and investing a portion of the avoided operational prison costs in the state's local public safety systems. In the 2013–15 biennium, $15 million was distributed among all 36 counties to begin their justice reinvestment programs. For the 2015–17 biennium, the grant program was funded in the amount of $38.7 million while the 2017–19 biennium grant program was funded at $47.1 million (this included the $7 million to support downward departure programs from HB 3078² in 2017).

Prior to the passage of HB 3194, the April 2013 corrections forecast estimated that Oregon should plan to house 15,706 adults in custody in state prisons by July 1, 2019. The latest forecast, issued April 2019, calls for only 14,795 adults in custody by that same date, a reduction of 911 adults in custody. As a result of the slowing growth of the prison population, justice reinvestment is projected to result in more than $350 million in avoided costs for Oregon by the end of the 2019–21 biennium. Of those avoided costs, $140 million are attributed to delaying the need to build a new male prison facility in Junction City beyond the next decade.³

II. Program Goals

The Justice Reinvestment Grant Program is administered by the CJC and requires a data-driven approach to (1) analyze criminal justice trends to understand drivers of local prison use; (2) promote the effective implementation of investments that increase public safety and improve offender accountability; (3) measure the impact of policy changes and reinvestment resources; and (4) tie results to future funding. Proposed programs should be based on existing research and evidence-based practices.

The purpose of the Justice Reinvestment Program is to provide funding for counties to plan, implement, or expand initiatives that meet all four goals of justice reinvestment:

- 1) Reduce recidivism through evidence-based practices;
- 2) Reduce prison populations for property, drug, and driving offenses;
- 3) Increase public safety; and
- 4) Hold offenders accountable.

The Justice Reinvestment Program supports two separate grants. The first grant is the formula grant, which is distributed using a formula to all qualifying counties that meet all four goals of justice reinvestment. The second grant is the supplemental grant, which is a competitive grant designed to supplement formula grant programs. Supplemental grant funds are directed to programs that have dedicated downward departure prison diversion programs.

➤ NOTE: Each application must address all four goals of the grant program.⁴

III. Eligible Program Requirements

In order to be considered for justice reinvestment funding, a program must:

- 1) Serves offenders charged with or convicted of property, drug, or driving offenses;
- 2) Consider and accept short-term transitional leave candidates as appropriate;
- 3) Provide assistance to clients enrolling in the Oregon Health Plan;
- 4) Utilize treatment providers that accept the Oregon Health Plan.

IV. List of Evidence-based Curriculums

Programs receiving justice reinvestment funding should be evidence-based. Counties are encouraged to consult the Benefit-Cost Results page Adult Criminal Justice Section by the Washington State Institute for Public Policy as a resource for evidence-based programs. While the list is not authoritative or comprehensive for each community, it does serve as a valuable resource.

CJC will provide grant funds in four installments during the biennium to the designated county applying for justice reinvestment grant program funding. Initial funding will be provided following the execution of the CJC Grant Award Agreement. Subsequent funding disbursements will be made contingent upon spend down and performance and progress towards the goals of justice reinvestment on a quarterly basis.

CJC may issue a provisional one-year award with continued funding contingent upon improved performance and progress toward the goals of the Justice Reinvestment Grant Program.
