WELCOME!

“We make a living by what we get,
but we make a life by what we give.”
~Winston Churchill

Welcome Marion County Advisory Board Member!

You join many others who serve as volunteer members of a Marion County advisory boards.

Thank you for your volunteer service!

Advisory boards provide guidance to decision makers and bring public participation into the process of local government. Marion County advisory board members are appointed to a county board, committee, commission, or council by the Board of Commissioners, Sheriff or judicial authority. The terms served by appointed volunteers vary in length depending on the board.

Although each board has a different mission, volunteers who serve as advisory board members for Marion County usually perform this service in a group. Each group functions a little differently as directed by the statute or charter for that particular board. The information in this handbook is intended to assist new advisory board members become acquainted with the functions, decision-making processes, policies, and laws that apply to county volunteers who serve on a county board. We hope you will find it helpful.

This is in addition to the information provided in the New Volunteer Orientation (NVO) modules, which cover key countywide policies, guidelines, and expectations for all volunteers. As an advisory board member you are required to complete NVO and you have 24/7 access to all our e-learning orientation videos that explain Marion County's policies and practices related to Ethics, Workplace Violence Prevention, Discrimination & Harassment-Free Workplace, and more.

Visit <https://www.co.marion.or.us/HR/VOL/Pages/New-Volunteer-Orientation.aspx> to find all NVO training materials. The Advisory Board Orientation video module can be found at <https://www.co.marion.or.us/HR/VOL/Pages/Advisory-Boards.aspx>.

Each department also provides its own orientation and training to help you understand your advisory board's specific role and how you'll be working together to serve the community.

LEGAL OBLIGATIONS OF ADVISORY BOARDS

Anyone who serves the State of Oregon or a local government — whether as an elected or appointed official, employee, agent, or volunteer — is considered a public official under Oregon law. This includes appointed volunteers like you!

As an advisory board member, it is important to remember that you have legal responsibilities, and understand what those are.

Public Officials

As an advisory board member, you are considered a public official and must act consistently with Oregon ethics laws (ORS 244.010 et seq.).

Two important things to remember:

1. Any public official from gaining financially as a result of his or her position regardless if it is salaried or not, and
2. Public officials must declare any conflicts of interest at a public meeting.

Marion County advisory boards are considered “public bodies” under Oregon law. As a result, we must ensure that our boards operate in compliance with the open meetings laws (ORS 192.610 et seq.).

Public Meeting Laws

Oregon’s open meetings laws essentially require three things:

1. Notice must be provided for all meetings,
2. Meetings must be open to the public, and
3. Minutes must be created for each meeting.

A “meeting” is defined as including not only formal gatherings of the board but also any occasion where a “quorum” (usually majority) of the board members come together and deliberate on board issues. This definition also applies where board subcommittees are concerned.

Therefore, if three members of a five-member board subcommittee come together and begin to discuss board matters, the open meetings laws must be complied with. This is true whether you are in a social setting or in a formal meeting. It is important to be aware of this fact when you find yourself with other board members, whatever the situation.

Meetings Law Violations

Most claims that the open meetings laws have been violated will be made against the public body itself. However, claims may be brought against the individual public officials (in this case volunteer board members); public officials may be sued personally for public meetings violations and complaints may also be registered with the Government Standards and Practices Commission (GSPC) and investigated.

In most of these circumstances, the county should be able to represent or act in defense of a public official who has acted in good faith. However, if it appears that a public official has intentionally acted outside the law, the county will not assist with defense.

Resources for Information

The open meetings laws and the ethics laws assure that Oregon's system of government operates properly. Fortunately, it is not difficult to comply with these laws. The first step is knowing what is required. You will receive more detailed information from staff supporting your advisory board.

If you ever have any questions, please contact the county volunteer services coordinator, the staff person that supports your board, or Marion County Legal Counsel. Any of these contacts can assist you with information and answers to your questions while you focus on the important service you are providing to the county. The "Quick Reference" Guide to Oregon Public Meeting Laws is included at the end of this handbook.

ETHICS FOR PUBLIC OFFICIALS

Eight General Rules for Government Code of Ethics:

1. No Favoritism

- Treat all customers and clients equally, no special favors for friends or family.

2. No Special Privileges Because of Your Official Position

- Follow the same rules that apply to everyone, no preferential treatment.
- Cannot use position to obtain an extra financial gain or avoid a loss.

3. Follow Confidentiality Rules and Laws

- Know which information you handle is confidential by law.
- Do not disclose confidential information without an authorization.
- Do not “tip off” anyone with confidential information.

4. No Profiting from County Business Either Directly or on the Side

- Applies to you, your relatives, members of household or your businesses.
- No directing county business to where you have a financial interest.
- No soliciting private clients or work through your county position.

5. No Outside Work that Conflicts or Interferes with Your Job

- Avoid conflicts of interest with county position and duties.
- Includes interference with attendance and ability to do county job.

6. State Law Limits on Accepting Gifts

- If you have a recommendation or decision-making authority over the source.
- Gift limit is $50 per person per year from source with a county interest.
- Limits on gifts of entertainment of $50 per person per year from one source.
- Some exceptions for food, beverages, small awards; check before accepting.

7. No Personal Use of County Property

- Do not borrow or take property or supplies for personal or non-county use.
- Exception: Marion County’s Computer Policy allows limited personal use.
- Do not use county property for personal gain or outside business.

8. Report Violations to Supervisor, Department Head or County Management

- Violations include improper use or theft of county property.
- Duty to report false claims, Medicaid fraud and abuse per federal law.

HOW WE WORK TOGETHER

Legal Protections

Marion County is a local public body and is subject to legal action and suit for the torts of its officers, employees and agents, including volunteers (Oregon Tort Claims Act, Oregon Revised Statutes 30.260 - 30.302). A tort is any breach of a legal duty which results in injury to a specific person or persons for which the law provides a remedy. “Injury” can include such things as financial loss, damage to reputation or emotional injury as well as physical injury.

According to the Act, the action or suit is brought only against the county, not against the individual volunteer. The volunteer, upon written request, is entitled to indemnification (protection from the cost of any judgment) and legal defense for any tort committed while in the performance of the volunteer’s duties. This is true unless the act or omission complained of amounted to malfeasance in office, willful or wanton neglect of duty, or criminal activity.

Staff Support for Advisory Boards

Marion County advisory boards are supported and managed by county staff within a department. Staff serve as the primary liaison between the advisory board and the Board of Commissioners, facilitating the board’s communication and ensuring that information, recommendations, and updates flow effectively between both groups.

The primary role of staff is to help carry out the recommendations, rules, and programs developed by the board. Staff also identify and bring forward issues of importance, assist the chair with agenda development, and compile background information for the board’s review and discussion.

Additional staff responsibilities include coordinating meeting logistics, preparing minutes, processing complaints, maintaining communication with members, and performing other administrative duties as needed. Staff are available to provide information, guidance, and support to advisory board, committee, and commission members.

Legislative Advocacy

Marion County has established Policy #214 Legislative Advocacy which applies to advisory boards and volunteers, and establishes the framework for county departments to participate in advocacy to ensure an effective program of legislative representation. The simplified explanation is that you should not be attempting to influence legislative action unless it is coordinated by a county staff. Read the policy at <https://www.co.marion.or.us/BOC/Pages/policies.aspx>.

HOW WE WORK TOGETHER

Being an Effective Board Member

Members are appointed to Marion County boards to represent the public at large. Many times appointments are made to reflect a geographic interest, an area of expertise, or to represent a professional association. Keep this in mind as you become acquainted with your fellow board members. Remember each member brings an important point of view.

Listening to differing points of view produces good policies and procedures, and fair solutions to problems. If you are unsure of the board's mission or the item under discussion, you may ask questions and seek information until you have a clear answer and good understanding of the expectations.

It is vital that all members attend meetings regularly and come to meetings prepared. It is important that you read all reports, proposals and other documents prepared or distributed by staff or board officers prior to meetings.

Meeting Ground Rules

Members of a group have a responsibility for the content and product of meetings they attend. They should come prepared to take ownership for their contribution and the end result of the meeting. Meetings do matter.

Every group should establish ground rules on how meetings will run, how members will interact, and what kind of behavior is acceptable. Because each group member is an individual, each has a different way of accomplishing tasks. At times these different ways can cause friction between members and slow down the process of the group as a whole. Establishing and respecting the ground rules helps to prevent misunderstandings and disagreements.

Examples of ground rules include:

Attendance:

Groups place a high priority on meeting attendance, talking about the legitimate reasons to miss a meeting and establishing a procedure for informing the group leader of an absence.

Meeting Management:

Most County advisory boards use Robert's Rules of Order to conduct their business. Contact Volunteer Services for information on using parliamentary procedures.

Participation:

Everyone's viewpoint is valuable and each member can make a unique contribution; therefore, emphasize the importance of both speaking freely and listening attentively.

Respectful Communication:

All participants are expected to listen attentively, to not interrupt, and be respectful. Groups may decide when interruptions will or won't be tolerated, and how to handle off-topic conversations.

Meeting Place and Time:

Meetings should start and end on time. Groups will specify a regular meeting time and place, and establish a procedure for notifying members of meetings and agendas.

Clarity and Transparency:

Agenda is written, process is clear and focused, work is defined and assigned, and the outcomes are clear to all.

HOW WE WORK TOGETHER

Roles and Responsibilities Within Each Group

By participating as a member of a group, each person makes a unique contribution through his or her presence alone, but some members may assume additional roles within the group. Each role that people select within a group has guidelines that help ensure success. The following are general guidelines that may vary with the requirements or needs of each group.

CHAIR

- Suggests group direction and options for setting goals.
- Provides a supportive environment for process, content, and group members.
- Coordinates activities of subcommittees.
- Sees that agendas are set.
- Sets the tone and pace for the group.
- May share the role of meeting preparation with a staff person.
- Represents the group in the community.
- If there is no appointed facilitator, the chair serves as facilitator - remaining neutral on content and focusing on process.

MEMBER

- Arranges adequate time to carry out responsibility as a group member.
- Comes to meetings prepared.
- Listens to other group members and follows the ground rules of the group.
- Participates in group discussion and decision-making.
- Serves on appropriate sub-committees.

FACILITATOR

- Guides the group through the agenda.
- Remains neutral in regard to content of the meeting.
- Encourages each member to participate fully.
- Keeps group energy positive and focused.
- Suggests methods to enable group to clearly solve the problem so that everyone agrees with the outcome.
- Works with the chair and staff in meeting logistics.

Your group may need a facilitator if:

- There is a difference in opinion on the direction of the group;
- Productivity is lacking and goals are not being accomplished;
- No one seems to care about anything;
- Goals are not clearly defined;
- The group is newly formed or has changed in membership;
- The organization experiences a lack of direction;
- The group is involved in strategic Planning;
- The leader is not delegating;
- The group is dominated by one or two individuals;
- Group members are not participating in discussions.

HOW WE WORK TOGETHER

Group Decision Making

Just as the functions of Marion County's advisory boards are different, so are the ways in which each board reaches a decision. After a discussion, some groups may vote; others may prioritize and select the decision which emerged as a priority; and still others may use consensus as a way to reach a decision.

It is important for volunteer advisory board members to be aware of the type of decision-making process their board uses and to become familiar with it. Consensus as a decision-making process is explained in this information because fewer people are familiar with it than with the other processes used by boards. For information on other decision-making methods, contact the county volunteer services coordinator.

What is consensus?

The Team Handbook, Joiner Associates, Inc., 1988.

In many cases a group's goal should be to reach decisions that best reflect the thinking of all group members. This is called "reaching consensus". It is easy to be confused about what consensus is and is not:

Consensus is...

- Finding a proposal acceptable enough that all members can support it; no member opposes it.

Consensus is not...

- A unanimous vote - consensus may not represent everyone's first priorities.
- A majority vote - in a majority vote, only the majority gets something they are happy with; people in the minority may get something they do not want at all, which is not what consensus is all about.
- Everyone has unhappily agreed to go along with the decision.

Consensus requires...

- Time.
- Active participation of all group members.
- Skills in communication: listening, conflict resolution, discussion facilitation.
- Creative thinking and open-mindedness.

"Ultimately a genuine leader is not a searcher for consensus but a molder of consensus."

— Martin Luther King Jr.,
Where Do We Go from Here:
Chaos or Community?

Marion County
OREGON

HOW WE WORK TOGETHER

To reach consensus, the team must let each member participate fully in the decision. This may mean going through several rounds of the outlined process for the group. And when the decision is reached, probably no one will be completely satisfied with the decision, but everyone can live with it.

Steps in the consensus decision-making process:

- Describe and define the problem, situation or issue that needs a decision. If complicated, hand out in written form beforehand.
- Brainstorm a list of alternatives without judging, discussing or rejecting any ideas. To encourage participation, take only one idea from each person.
- Review, change, consolidate, rewrite and set priorities through group discussion.
- Make a consensus decision. When a solution is reached, make sure it is written on a flip chart or chalkboard so everyone can see.
- Implement the decision: who will do what, when, and how.
- Group will evaluate and revise the results later if necessary.

What is Open Oregon?

Open Oregon: A Freedom of Information Coalition is a non-profit educational and charitable organization with a single purpose: to assist and educate the general public, students, educators, public officials, media and legal professional to understand and exercise:

- Their rights to open government.
- Their rights and responsibilities under the Oregon public meetings and records laws.
- Their rights under the federal Freedom of Information Act.

Open Oregon is a 501(c)(3) non-profit corporation.

The Spirit of Oregon's Public Meetings Law

The Value of Openness

Understanding the letter of the Public Meetings Law is critical. Equally important is understanding and committing to the spirit of that law. Public bodies should approach the law with openness in mind. Open meetings help citizens understand decisions and build trust in government. It is better to comply with the spirit of the law and keep deliberations open.

GUIDE TO OREGON PUBLIC MEETINGS LAWS

Oregon's Public Meetings Law

"Open government" or "sunshine" laws originally were enacted nationwide in the early 1970s because of growing public unhappiness with government secrecy. As a result, every state and the District of Columbia enacted laws requiring government to conduct its business openly, rather than behind closed doors.

Open government laws benefit both government and the public. Citizens gain by having access to the process of deliberation - enabling them to view their government at work and to influence its deliberations. Government officials gain credibility by permitting citizens to observe their information-gathering and decision-making processes. Such understanding leads to greater trust in government by its citizens. Conversely, officials who attempt to keep their deliberations hidden from public scrutiny create cynicism, erode public trust and discourage involvement.

Policy

Oregon's Public Meetings Law was enacted in 1973 to make sure that all meetings of governing bodies covered by the law are open to the public. This includes meetings called just to gather information for subsequent decisions or recommendations.

The law also requires that the public be given notice of the time and place of meetings and that meetings be accessible to everyone, including persons with disabilities.

The Public Meetings Law guarantees the public the right to view government meetings, but not necessarily to speak at them. Governing bodies set their own rules for citizen participation and public comment.

GUIDE TO OREGON PUBLIC MEETINGS LAWS

Who is covered?

Because questions often arise about what groups must comply with the public-meetings law, it is useful to look at the definitions in the law. The law says that any “governing body” of a “public body” is required to comply. It offers these definitions:

- A “public body” is any state, regional, or local governmental board, department, commission, council, bureau, committee, subcommittee, or advisory group created by the state constitution, statute, administrative rule, order, intergovernmental agreement, bylaw or other official act.
- A “governing body” is two or more members of a public body who have the authority to make decisions for or recommendations to a public body on policy or administration. A group without power of decision is a governing body when authorized to make recommendations to a public body, but not when the recommendations go to individual public officials.

Example

- A school board must meet in public.
- So must most advisory committees that the school board creates, such as a budget committee.
- But if the school board chair asks several business leaders to meet with him to discuss future building needs, that meeting may be held in private.

Private bodies, such as non-profit corporations, do not have to comply with the public-meetings law, even if they receive public funds, contract with governmental bodies or perform public services.

Example

- A school district contracts with Regence BlueCross BlueShield of Oregon to provide health insurance for district employees. The BlueCross BlueShield board of directors is not required to meet in public.

Public agencies contracting with private bodies may require a private body to comply with the law for pertinent meetings. Federal agencies are not subject to Oregon’s Public Meetings Law.

What is a Public Meeting?

A public meeting is the convening of any governing body for which a quorum is required to make or deliberate toward a decision on any matter, or to gather information. Decisions must be made in public, and secret ballots are prohibited. Quorum requirements may vary among governing bodies.

Example

- A county commission's goal-setting retreat is a public meeting if a quorum is present and they discuss official business.
- A training session for the commissioners is not a public meeting, unless a quorum is present and the commissioners discuss official business.
- A staff meeting absent a quorum of commissioners, whether called by a single commissioner or a non-elected official, is not a public meeting.

Meetings accomplished by telephone conference calls or other electronic means are public meetings. The governing body must provide public notice, as well as a location where the public may listen to or observe the meeting.

Governing bodies must hold their meetings within the geographic boundaries of their jurisdiction. However, a governing body may meet elsewhere if there is an actual emergency requiring immediate action or to hold a training session, when no deliberation toward a decision is involved.

Example

- A library board is free to rotate meetings at different libraries in its district, but it may not meet outside its district.

Federal and state law requires that meetings be held in places accessible to individuals with mobility and other impairments.

GUIDE TO OREGON PUBLIC MEETINGS LAWS

What is Exempt from the Law?

On-site inspections, staff meetings and gatherings of associations to which a public body or its members belong are not considered public meetings. Chance social gatherings are not considered meetings as long as no official business is discussed.

Example

- Three out of five city councilors inspect a new landfill site. Their inspection does not constitute a public meeting, unless they deliberate toward a decision on a city matter.
- Later, the three city councilors attend a League of Oregon Cities conference. Again, this is not a public meeting, unless the councilors discuss official city business.
- That evening, the three councilors chat during a concert intermission. As long as they talk about the music, this is not a public meeting. But if they stray into discussion of official city business, then it is.

Also exempt from the Public Meetings Law are:

- Meetings of state or local lawyers assistance committees.
- Meetings of medical peer review committees.
- Meetings of multidisciplinary teams reviewing child abuse and neglect fatalities.
- Judicial proceedings. However, see Oregon Constitution, Section 10.
- Review by the Workers' Compensation Board and the Employment Appeals Board of hearings on contested cases.
- Meetings of the Energy Facility Siting Council when it reviews and approves security programs.
- The Oregon Health and Science University regarding presidential selection process, sensitive business matters, or meetings of faculty or staff committees.
- Mediation by the agricultural mediation service program.

GUIDE TO OREGON PUBLIC MEETINGS LAWS

For some entities, the deliberation process alone is exempt, although information-gathering and decision-making must be public. This applies to the State Board of Parole, the Psychiatric Security Review Board, and state agencies conducting hearings on contested cases under the Administrative Procedures Act.

Notice of Meetings

Governing bodies must give notice of the time, place and agenda for any regular, special or emergency meeting.

Public notice must be reasonably calculated to give actual notice to interested persons and media who have asked in writing to be notified of meetings and general notice to the public at large.

Governing bodies wishing to provide adequate notice should strive to provide as much notice as possible to ensure that those wishing to attend have ample opportunity – a week to 10 days for example.

At least 24-hour notice to members of the governing body, the public and media is required for any special meeting, unless the meeting is considered an emergency meeting. Appropriate notice is required for emergency meetings and should include phone calls to media and other interested parties. Notice for emergency meetings must also cite the emergency.

A meeting notice must include a list of the principal subjects to be considered at the meeting. This list should be specific enough to permit citizens to recognize matters of interest. However, discussion of subjects not on the agenda is allowed at the meeting.

Example

The State Board of Higher Education plans to discuss building new college campus in Burns. An agenda item that says "Discussion of public works" would be too general. Instead, the agenda should say something like "Discussion of proposed Burns campus."

Executive Sessions

Governing bodies are allowed to exclude the public – but generally not the media – from the discussion of certain subjects. These meetings are called executive sessions.

Executive sessions may be called during any regular, special or emergency meeting. A governing body may set a meeting solely to hold an executive session as long as it gives appropriate public notice. Notice requirements for executive sessions are the same as for regular, special or emergency meetings. However, labor negotiations conducted in executive sessions are not subject to public notice requirements.

Notice of an executive session must cite the specific law that authorizes the executive session. This authorization also must be announced before going into the executive session.

Governing bodies may formally specify that the media not disclose information that is the subject of the executive session. Governing bodies should not discuss topics apart from those legally justifying the executive session. Media representatives may report discussions that stray from legitimate executive session topics and are not required to inform the governing body when they intend to do so.

No final action may be taken in executive session. Decisions must be made in public session. If a governing body expects to meet publicly to make a final decision immediately after an executive session, it should try to announce the time of that open session to the public before the executive session begins.

Example

• City councilors meet in executive session to discuss the city manager's performance. A local reporter attends. During the meeting, the councilors discuss whether the city should put a bond measure on the next ballot. The reporter may write a story on the council's bond-measure discussion, because that discussion was not allowed under the executive session rules. The reporter may not write about the city manager's performance.

GUIDE TO OREGON PUBLIC MEETINGS LAWS

Executive Sessions Criteria

Executive sessions are allowed only for very limited purposes. Those include:

- 1. To consider the initial employment of a public officer, employee or staff member, but not to fill a vacancy in an elected office, or on public committees, commissions or advisory groups. These sessions are allowed only if the position has been advertised, standardized procedures for hiring have been publicly adopted, and the public has had an opportunity for input on the process. Executive sessions are not allowed to consider general employment policies.
- 2. To consider dismissal, discipline, complaints or charges against a public official, employee, official, staff or individual agent, unless that person requests a public hearing.
- 3. To review and evaluate the job performance of a chief executive officer, or other officer or staff member, unless that person requests an open hearing. Such evaluation must be pursuant to standards, criteria and policy directives publicly adopted by the governing body following an opportunity for public comment. The executive session may not be used for the general evaluation of agency goals, objectives, programs or operations, or to issue any directive to personnel on the same.
- 4. To deliberate with persons designated to conduct labor negotiations. The media may be excluded from these sessions.
- 5. To conduct labor negotiations if both sides request that negotiations be in executive session. Public notice is not required for such meetings.
- 6. To consider records that are exempt by law from public disclosure.
- 7. To consult with counsel concerning litigation filed or likely to be filed against the public body. Members of the media that are a party to that litigation, or represent a media entity that is a party, may be excluded.
- 8. To consult with persons designated to negotiate real property transactions.

GUIDE TO OREGON PUBLIC MEETINGS LAWS

9. To discuss matters of trade when the governing body is in competition with other states or nations.

10. To negotiate with a private person or business regarding public investments.

11. To discuss matters of medical competency and other matters pertaining to licensed hospitals.

12. To consider information obtained by a health professional regulatory board or State Landscape Architect Board as part of an investigation of licensee or applicant conduct.

13. To discuss information relating to the security of: a nuclear power plant; transportation of radioactive materials; generation, storage or conveyance of electricity, gas hazardous substances, petroleum, sewage or water; and telecommunications and data transmission.

Media at Executive Sessions

Media representatives must be allowed to attend executive sessions, with three exceptions. Media may be excluded from:

- Strategy discussions with labor negotiators.
- Meetings to consider expulsion of a student or to discuss students' confidential medical records.
- Meetings to consult with counsel concerning litigation to which the media or media representative is a party.

A governing body may require that specific information not be reported by the media. This should be done by declaration of the presiding officer or vote. In the absence of this directive, the executive session may be reported. Any discussion of topics apart from those legally justifying the executive session may be reported by the media.

GUIDE TO OREGON PUBLIC MEETINGS LAWS

The media also is free to report on information gathered independently from executive session, even though the information may be the subject of an executive session.

Example

• A reporter attends the executive session on the city council's discussion of the city manager's performance. Afterwards the reporter asks a councilor what she thinks of the city manager's performance. She shares her criticism. The reporter may use that interview to develop a story, even though the reporter first heard the information at the executive session.

Minutes

Written, sound, video or digital recording of minutes are required for all meetings.

The meetings law says minutes must be made available within a "reasonable time" after each meeting, but does not specify the time. Generally, this time frame should not exceed three weeks. Minutes must be preserved for a "reasonable time." This is generally interpreted to be at least one year. Minutes of many governing bodies are subject to records retention rules and schedules established by the State Archivist.

Minutes must indicate:

- Members present
- All motions, proposals, resolutions, orders, ordinances and measures proposed and their disposition.
- The result of all votes by name of each member (except for public bodies consisting of more than 25 members). No secret ballots are allowed.
- The substance of discussion on any matter.
- A reference to any document discussed at the meeting.

Minutes are not required to be a verbatim transcript and the meeting does not have to be tape recorded unless so specified by law. Minutes are public record and may not be withheld from the public merely because they will not be approved until the next meeting. Minutes of executive sessions are exempt from disclosure under the Oregon Public Records Law. Governing bodies are allowed to charge fees to recover their actual cost for duplicating minutes, tapes and records. A person with a disability may not be charged additional costs for providing records in larger print.

GUIDE TO OREGON PUBLIC MEETINGS LAWS

Enforcement

County district attorneys or the Oregon Attorney General's Office may be able to answer questions about possible public meetings law violations, although neither has any formal enforcement role and both are statutorily prohibited from providing legal advice to private citizens.

Any person affected by a governing body's decision may file a lawsuit in circuit court to require compliance with or prevent violations of the Public Meetings Law. The lawsuit must be filed within 60 days following the date the decision becomes public record.

The court may void a governing body's decision if the governing body intentionally or willfully violated the Public Meetings Law, even if the governing body has reinstated the decision in a public vote. The court also may award reasonable legal fees to a plaintiff who brings suit under the Public Meetings Law.

Complaints of executive session violations may be directed to the Oregon Government Ethics Commission, 3218 Pringle Road SE, Suite 220, Salem OR, 97302-1544; 503-378-5105, for review, investigation and possible imposition of civil penalties.

Members of a governing body may be liable for attorney and court costs both as individuals or as members of a group if found in willful violation of the Public Meetings Law.
