

TRANSFORMATIVE SPACES WITHIN PRISON WALLS

The Oregon State Penitentiary Healing Garden Project

Prisons are bleak spaces with few opportunities for contemplation or restoration. A new project at the Oregon State Penitentiary promises to change that. Landscape architect Hoichi Kurisu will describe the philosophy and transformative potential of the Japanese-styled Healing Garden Project.

Featured Speakers:

- Mr. Hoichi Kurisu, internationally known Japanese garden designer/builder
- Professor Melissa Michaux, Willamette University
- Trevor Walraven, former prisoner

Sunday February 11 | 4–5pm

Willamette University
Hudson Hall

Event is free and open to the public.

Reception (light refreshments) will follow with Q&A opportunity

Co-sponsored by: Willamette University's Politics Department and Asian Studies Program

